for details go to: www.ocgc.org

October 15 Montenegrin Duo. The Serbian-born virtuosos Goran Krivokapić and Danijel Cerović have already established brilliant solo careers, and their duo has received universally rave reviews for their many international appearances and recordings. A number of composers have written pieces for, or dedicated to, this duo who have incorporated them into their broad and expanding repertoire.

February 18 Thibaut Garcia. This young French star has won numerous international competitions, most recently the prestigious Guitar Federation of America competition in 2015. His appearance in the OCGC Featured Artist Recital series is part of his year-long winner's international concert tour, which will culminate with a recital at Carnegie Hall.

March 18 Andrea Di Vitis This young Italian star has been a prize winner in dozens of international competitions and has been praised as a "A true musician" exhibiting "brilliant virtuosity". His debut album "Colloquio with Andrés Segovia", released in 2015, has achieved a great success with critics and audiences alike.

April 15 Mark Delpriora. Delpriora has studied with Manuel Barrueco and participated in master classes with Segovia, and has performed extensively throughout North and South America and Italy. He is a highly regarded composer of music for guitar, and is currently Chair of the Guitar Department at the Manhattan School of Music and on the faculty of the Juilliard School.
